2. Mauer Oehling (O 49/W 26). On 27 October, about 30 soldiers [REDACTED] were about 20 years old, received basic training in the yard of the former Landes-Heilanstalt in Mauer Oehling, as did about 25 others at the drill ground east of this installation. Five tank trucks [REDACTED] were parked in the yard of the Landes-Heilanstalt. Truck [REDACTED] appeared to be loaded with baggage belonging to about 50 soldiers in front of a building just southwest of the installation. A band of about 15 men were near-by. Music was later heard from the Mauer Oehling railroad station where a colonel, a major and two lieutenants wearing red-bordered silver epaulets and eight senior lieutenants, lieutenants and sublieutenants with red-bordered gold epaulets, and about 120 soldiers, approximately 25 years old were waiting. Most of them wore black-bordered red epaulets, some wore red-bordered black epaulets with tank and artillery insignia, a few had black epaulets with or without signal and motor transport insignia. The four officers with silver epaulets and the about 120 E-1 boarded eight boxcars which formed a special train. The train left Mauer Oehling toward Vienna. The eight officers with gold epaulets boarded the passenger train to Vienna. The band returned to the installation on truck [REDACTED] 25X1
